SPACE IS NEVER A PROBLEM

In smaller spaces, one needs to be extra cautious about the utilisation of space. With so many storage options available it has become quite simple to maximise space. Using a bed with storage at the foot and at the back, we connected it to the study table and created shelves. Another tall unit at the end of the study table gave more storage. Using space between cupboard we created a small seating space for the child to curl up and read his favourite books. This in total created lots of storage space without wasting any area and leaving some free space too.

GROWING YEARS, GROWING SPACE NEEDS

The growth years demand lots of space for two kids. While you have to keep in mind requirements of both the kids, your space remains the same. To tackle that, we created a bunk bed with storage facility and created one study attached to it and to the bay window. On the other side of the room, we created tall cupboards for storage and another study. By this we solved the storage and space worries so both the kids enjoy a positive environment.
